In Quest of Happiness

In choosing the theme for this Scroll of nineteen fifty-one, the words of Christ, "I am the Way, the Truth, and the Light," seemed to take hold of our imaginations and immediately determined our decision, because they are so completely the core of life at St. Ursula's.

For the Catholic girl worthy of the name, her life's aim should be eternal salvation—heavenly reward. Very often, however, the "way" toward this goal is beset with numberless vicissitudes and setbacks. But she must ever keep in mind that the more numerous the crosses she bears on her thorny path to eternity, the more jewel-bedecked will be her crown in the life hereafter.

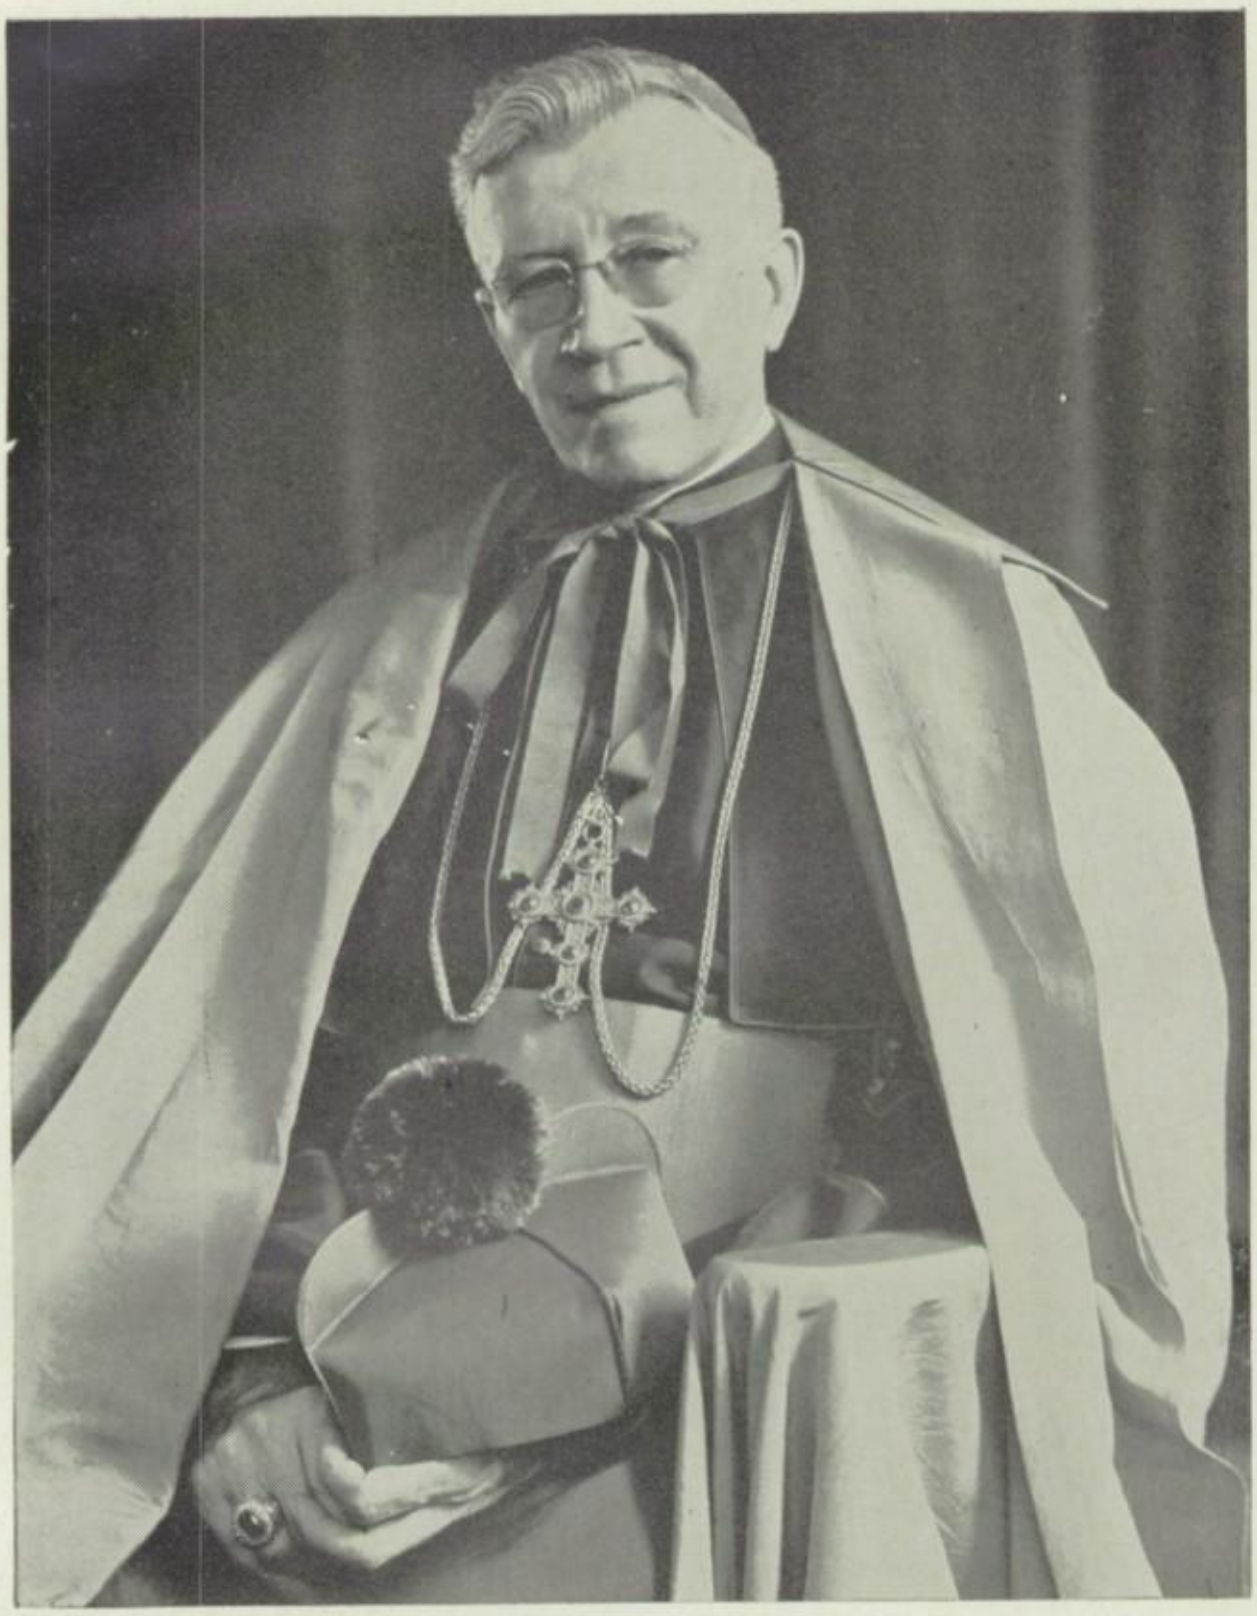
Guideposts, spiritual, cultural, and social, are placed intermittently through the course of the four years to direct her safely toward her goal. Along the way and at the crossroads, lasting friendships are formed either to help or hinder her progress. Investigation of the Truth and meditation on the Light are provided for by means of the various gateways to grace, where the young Catholic girl rests awhile in her journey to renew her moral determination and spiritual vigor.

With aids such as these, she can go into the world, after her four-year cycle of secondary education has been completed, with her feet firmly planted on the Road to Salvation and her Eternal Commencement.

'In God's Good Pleasure'

"In Divino Beneplacito", the inscription found on our Most Reverend Bishop's coat-of-arms, expresses a prayer that God will look down upon the Diocese of Toledo and find it good. Each partition of Bishop Rehring's seal was chosen by him to signify the unity that should exist between the bishop and his episcopal see. Above the shield is the pontifical hat, with the episcopal symbols, the crosier, or pastoral staff, the cross, and the mitre beneath. The shield displays the insignia of both the diocese and of Bishop Rehring: the castle representing Toledo, Spain, after which our city was named; while the right side of the shield contains the plough, symbolical of Cincinnatus, early Roman hero after whom Cincinnati, Ohio, the Bishop's birthplace, was named. The Moline cross is the Rehring family seal.

Dedication



Most Reverend George J. Rehring
Bishop of Toledo

As a mark of our sincere affection and esteem, we, the Senior Class of St. Ursula Academy, respectfully dedicate this volume of the Scroll to the Most Reverend George J. Rehring, S.T.D., fourth Bishop of Toledo. Coming to us from Cincinnati, Bishop Rehring brings to his office a learning, devotedness, and zeal which have made him revered and loved in the various capacities in which he has served. His career, which began with ordination in 1914, runs a wide gamut of experience in parish work, professorship at Mount St. Mary's Seminary, Cincinnati, assistant to the late Archbishop John T. McNicholas, and his present rank as Bishop of Toledo.

One of the most memorable excursions in the the itinerary of the Class of 1951 was attendance in October at the installation of our new Bishop in Queen of the Holy Rosary Cathedral. It seems most fitting, then, that we dedicate this 1951 logbook to our Chief Shepherd, from whose hands at the June graduation we hope to receive our passport to the future.

Father Philip King O.M.I.

For the second year we have been privileged in having, both as spiritual director and teacher of Christian Doctrine, Father King, a zealous son of Our Lady. To show his love for Our Lady, he has dedicated his entire life to her as her servant in the Oblates of Mary Immaculate. Because he sees in Mary the perfect example of Christian womanhood, he is able to impart to us what we, the future Christian women, ought to be.

Beginning with the celebration of opening Mass in early fall, Father King has served as an excellent guide on our road to happiness. With his explanations, thoughtful advice, patience, and understanding, we were brought to a truer knowledge of our religion and also a truer and firmer love for it.

We wish now to thank Father King, in a little way, for guiding us so carefully along the perilous path towards our eternal goal—heaven.

The curtain has descended on that great hit, "The Junior Class of '50 and '51." It opened to an expectant audience assembled in St. Ursula's Academy, in September, 1950, and kept running by popular demand until June, 1951. Its able management included Ann Openlander, producer; Sue Cole, director; Pat Lynch, playwright, and Sue Brunner, manager of the Box Office. The Juniors themselves composed the talented cast.

In Act I, Scene 1, we see the Juniors assuming their new dignity as upperclassmen. Scene 2 shows them lifting their voices in song as they try out for a cappela choir. Next we see them busily collecting and sorting for the Tax Stamp Drive in which they were the leaders.

Act II opens with a scene of great pathos as the Juniors wearily burn the midnight oil for exams. In Scene 2, the true character of the class is revealed as they spiritedly sell tickets for the Missions Raffle and ring doorbells for Chronicle subscriptions.

The last scene is one of true dramatic appeal as the Juniors, and their guests, the Seniors, float across the floor of the Woman's Club ballroom in the arms of their Prince Charmings.

As the curtain goes down on the last act, the Juniors are filled with regret to think the play has ended, but look forward to the premiere of their new production, "The Senior Class of '52", with happy anticipation and firm determination to carry out the traditions of days gone by with another stellar performance.

Shh! For here we are in Sophomore Kingdom and all the princesses within are sleeping. No, they're not lazy, but they are very tired. Theirs has been a year of hard toil under their queen and her prime ministers.

Let us walk through the kingdom and see what these princesses are dreaming about. Over in this corner, on the white satin bed, lies Princess Fun-lover, dreaming of that wonderful day in September when the Sophomores carried one hundred freshman ladies-in-waiting into Fairytale Land and officially accepted them as sister princesses.

Here on this golden couch is Princess Loyalty, floating on a tiny pink cloud and thinking of the day she and the rest in Sophomore Kingdom arranged tables, made favors, and prepared two hundred-eighty places for the big celebration on the Feast of St. Ursula. On this day, these fair ladies were hostesses to the whole Ursuline Castle.

Look at Princess Energetic over there on the velvet pillow, remembering how hard and happily she worked to make the kingdom rate one hundred per cent in the Catholic Chronicle and Messenger drives. She also remembers that she and her sister princesses had a share in making Mission Day in February such a success.

Extra! Extra! Read all about the Centenary Class of '54.

Since the Freshmen are the Centenary Class, they naturally base all their activities on a one hundred per cent outcome in all undertakings.

Society

All decked out in their finery, the freshmen made a laughing spectacle of themselves by appearing on the Ursuline campus on initiation day in story-book and comic strip character costumes.

The Centenary Class, as hostesses, sang the praises of St. Ursula's to the future freshmen on eighth grade day.

Stock Report

The stock in Catholic souls of the foreign missions went up one hundred per cent when the Freshmen stepped in and cornered the market.

Sports

The upperclassmen of St. Ursula's were "shown up" by the athletic freshmen who stole the volleyball crown from the last-year's winners.

Woman's Sphere

Many questions were asked of the frosh on how to make an attractive centerpiece, when at the St. Ursula's day breakfast, the above turned up with the prize winner.

Gateway to Grace

Heavenly Hostess . . .

Garbed in white, a symbol of the virtue of purity so outstanding in the life of St. Ursula, two hundred eighty-five of her daughters gathered October 21, to celebrate her feast day. The traditional program was followed: Mass, Holy Communion, breakfast in Urban Hall, and the first Student League Meeting of the year.

In charge were Sister Mary Patricia and the Sophomores, who inaugurated a centerpiece contest. Most fittingly, Freshman A's representation of St. Ursula's visit to the Pope, with the castle made from candy and lumps of sugar and the figures dressed by the girls themselves, was awarded the coveted prize.

At the business meeting, representatives of all the school organizations, spiritual, cultural, and social, outlined their plans for the current school year.

Enthronement Center

During the past year a Secretariate was established at Ursuline Convent to share in the apostolate of Enthronement of the Sacred Heart, and Night Adoration in the Home. The National Center of the Enthronement is in Washington, D. C. Local Secretariates are established in various places to aid in dispensing material and information. The Ursuline Enthronement Secretariate is now the center of Enthronement and Night Adoration activity in the state of Ohio. Legion of Mary girls shared in the work of organizing the files, by registering themselves, and by acting as promoters to spread this apostolate among their families and friends.

Missions

After much hustle and bustle the Mission Committee emerged more than a little satisfied from a successful sale of Christmas cards and seals. On Shrove Tuesday a benefit movie and raffle netted a grand total of almost four hundred dollars to swell the Academy mission coffers. The annual all-school carnival held in May brought the Missions program to a successful close.

Archbishop Dennis Hurley, OMI, of the Union of South Africa, related his interesting experiences with the Zulus. He told of the various customs and idiosyncrasies of the tribe and how the Church is becoming established, for there are many natives willing to become priests and nuns.

Our Lady's Committee

To the seniors was given the responsibility and management of Our Lady's Committee. This organization's goal was to bring all closer to Mary, Our Mother. This year promoters instituted the weekly recitation of the rosary in the home-rooms, with the intentions of the conversion of Russia and personal sanctification. In December, the Committee sponsored a Holy Hour on the vigil of the Feast of the Immaculate Conception. Earlier in the year the "Queen's Work" drive netted over seventy subscriptions.

Legion of Mary

This year, because of the large enrollment of members, the Legion of Mary has been divided into two praesidia, one composed entirely of freshmen and the other, seniors, juniors and sophomores. The main purpose of the Legion is to inspire and increase love and devotion to Mary, Our Mother, and her Divine Son, not only in the individual members, but to serve as a means of bringing Christ forth more prominently into the world. The annual Acies ceremony held in April brought Bishop Rehring as guest speaker.

Retreat

The annual retreat, conducted by the Rev. Francis Daley, C.S.S.R., opened on February 28. The usual schedule of Mass, conferences, private devotions, and Benediction was followed during the three days. Father Daley, in his conferences, stressed anew the importance of the soul, of a strong faith, and of making good confessions.

Because marriage will be the career of most Ursuline girls, Father Daley especially emphasized courtship and marriage. He pointed out the dangers of long courtships, and the risk of mixed marriages. One conference was devoted especially to the Blessed Virgin, and the retreatants again consecrated themselves to her.

May Crowning

The Senior Class, in April, gave to Suzanne Hartnett the honor par excellence when they elected her May Queen to crown Our Lady, Queen of May, on the feast of St. Angela, May thirty-first. Runners-up in the election, Frances Metty and Margot Boaden, were the queen's attendants. The entire school participated in the traditional ceremony, which consisted of a campus procession culminating in Sacred Heart Chapel with the crowning of the statue of Our Lady there.

A Cappella Choir

As one entered the halls of the Academy during the past year, she would be sure to hear strains of music at any time of day. But if the visitor happened in on Tuesday and Thursday, the melodies heard would be those issuing from the Auditorium, where the General Choral was making music. On Wednesday and Friday the forty members of the A Cappella Choir met under the direction of Sister St. Mark. As part of the Gaudete Sunday Catholic Youth Organization program the Choir, together with the Glee Clubs of Central Catholic High School and Notre Dame Academy, sang a group of Christmas carols. The Academy Christmas assembly was also enhanced by their chants and carols. Come a night in June and the Choir will join voices with the General Choral to provide the musical dish for the Commencement exercises.

Orchestra

An orchestra is a popular extracurricular activity in any school and St. Ursula's is no exception. Its active members numbered nineteen and the three seniors lost by graduation will be replaced by those freshmen now studying instrumental music. Under the baton of Sister Jeanne Marie and the incentive of new music, this group made considerable progress. One of the members, Mary Keenan, is a player in the Toledo Youth Orchestra.

This year the thirty-first volume of the SCROLL, the Academy yearbook, published by the Senior Class, is being presented. It all began on St. Ursula's Day in October, when Sister Mary Blanche made the anxiously awaited announcement of the co-editors. They were Mary Anne Kiefer and Mary Ann Jarzynski, both industrious workers and honor students. After a successful patron and advertising campaign, the work on the yearbook really began. The staff, planning each section around the main theme: a girl on the road to her final goal, heaven, endeavored to have each student's picture included.

Inheriting from the 1950 staff the title of "Paper of Distinction," the staff of 1951 worked diligently to uphold the reputation of the Ursuline and only time and the survey release of the Catholic School Press Association in September will tell. Honors came to Co-editor Hill in February when she received second prize in the Blade Press Clinic interview with newspaper correspondent Dorothy Thompson. Periodically throughout the year, staff members attended the Clinic meetings and interviewed guest speakers. The Ursuline, in its sixth year of publication, belongs to the Catholic School Press Association, the National Scholastic Press Association, and the Quill and Scroll, international honor society for high school journalists.

Easter

Juniors and Seniors, with their escorts, wound up the Easter promenade at the Woman's Building, March twenty-sixth, dancing to the music of Al Jordan and his band. School colors, gold and blue, were carried out in the dainty dance programs, which carried the school crest. Chaperons were the parents of the class officers, and lay faculty members. Junior Class President, Ann Openlander, was assisted in arrangements by Sue Cole, Sue Brunner, Anna Mary Hrycyk, Carol Huffmon, Barbara Kaltenbach, Dorothy Helfrich, Moira Hurley, Patricia Lynch, Carol Warnement, and Virginia Warnke.

Drama Club

The Drama Club made its debut in October with the presentation of "A Day With Our Lady". The performance centered around a young musician, estranged from his family, who came to the Shrine of Mary to ask her to aid him in finding his family. At the Shrine a playlet concerning the life of the Blessed Virgin was presented.

Home Economics Tea

In February, the sophomore Home Economics Class climaxed their annual style show with a tea for their mothers. "Miss Ursula Styles", as the show was called, displayed a variety of daytime and evening apparel featuring the latest fashion trends. Three freshmen also participated, Betty Beckler, making a cowgirl outfit for her little sister; Ann Schuchmann and Rosemary Oliger.

Pictured are the Temple Maidens and their Mistress; kneeling: Arlene Drozik, Marcia Tanber, Frances Metty, Ann Schuchmann, Mary Lou Huss; standing: Carol Ann Malik, Judy Bruss, Nancy Huss.

Senior Mothers' Tea

The Senior Class entertained their mothers with a Valentine Tea in February. The officers were in charge, Hildegarde Keil, president, giving the welcoming address. Jean Harchuck's entertainment committee produced a variety of musical numbers — piano, voice, violin, and Ann DeShetler gave a reading. A statue of the Blessed Virgin composed the centerpiece for the Valentine decorative motif. Each mother was presented with a seasonal corsage by her daughter.

Winners in the volleyball finals pictured here are Freshman B champions, who humbled a fighting Junior A team to a score of 21-12. Anita Willoughby, with eight points, contributed much to the victory for the frosh. The basketball tournament in April showed all classes conditioning themselves for the fray. After going down to defeat in the volleyball venture, upperclassmen rolled up their sleeves to gain the basketball crown.

Quiet, Comfortable, Beautiful...Always

With windows of THERMOPANE* insulating glass, you can bring nature's light and grandeur IN . . . and at the same time shut out noise and discomfort.

In THERMOPANE, a blanket of desert-dry air is tightly sealed between two panes of glass. This muffles outside noise . . . your rooms stay quieter. In hot weather, it checks the entrance of outdoor heat . . . keeps your home cooler. In chilly weather when heaters must be turned on, it cuts heat loss through glass and saves fuel. THERMOPANE reduces condensation on windows, too.

THERMOPANE builds in the insulation your large windows and window walls need to help you keep indoor conditions more pleasant. For building economy and design flexibility, THERMOPANE is made in over 80 standard sizes for fixed or movable sash. Your L-O-F Glass Distributor can furnish full details. Or write for your THERMOPANE book.

There's Something About
TELEPHONE WORK

Maybe it's being part of a service that's always valuable, and absolutely vital in emergency . . . sickness, fire, flood and — Defense. The telephone girl is important to her community. She can be proud of her work, happy in her associates, pleased with good pay which keeps growing through regular raises.
